

COVER LETTER

A life saved by poetry and love touched inside us all.

Dear Editor,

My friends keep begging me to share my stories and my life's work with you and your audience. God has gifted me with a voice to compose words of love, hope and romance. Through my poetry, I try to encourage and support people to embrace the angels inside themselves.

Bartoluciano
Master Poet, Artist & Designer

Every week I receive hundreds of emails from friends thanking me for sharing my gifts with them. In fact, I recently received a very touching story about a woman who reconsidered committing suicide after reading my poetry. She had even already taken an overdose of pills before she noticed my book sitting in the car beside her. She began reading and as the drugs began taking effect, she changed her mind and decided to fight for life. Her thanks for "saving her life" was most touching and frankly, more than a bit shocking. See the attached story for the actual letter.

I have great respect for everything you do and the compelling stories you share with your audience. I would be honored to share the gifts that have been granted to me and shared through me. My mission in life is to inspire and encourage others to embrace the angel inside themselves. I will be traveling across the U.S. this summer sharing my work and inspiring others to find their own voices and true callings. You can contact me directly for more information, or check my website at www.bartoluciano.com

The angel in me is humbled by the heavenly work you do everyday.

Best Regards,

Bartoluciano

more information at www.bartoluciano.com